Bank of America Corporation
Charlotte, NC

Biography

Matt Pearson is Associate General Counsel and Senior Vice President in the Bank of America Legal Department's Regulatory Inquiries Group. Matt and his team are primarily responsible for leading the response to investigations by federal and state regulators and government agencies relating to the bank's consumer businesses. Matt also directs stress testing for the Legal Department in support of the bank's Comprehensive Capital Analysis and Review (CCAR) exercise. In prior roles, Matt managed significant consumer, antitrust, and government litigation and class action matters, including the bank's consumer False Claims Act litigation, and coordinated regulatory engagement with state and federal government stakeholders following the 2012 National Mortgage Settlement.

Prior to joining Bank of America, Matt handled consumer financial services, securities, and other corporate litigation matters at McGuireWoods. He is a graduate of Amherst College and Washington and Lee School of Law, where he was editor-in-chief of the Washington and Lee Law Review.
